Ignite Gift Hamper
Worth ₹5,000

This game is all about identifying one that pretends to know everything about the topic by communicating with each other. A group of 8 people will play this game from which 7 will be crewmates and 1 will be imposter.

Communication round: Time of 1 minute will be given in order to communicate with each other. Participants will be allowed to communicate with each other in that minute for the purpose of finding out who the imposter is.

Voting/Elimination round: Players are allowed to vote out someone anonymously by writing the name in a piece of paper.

Communication and voting rounds will go on until 2 people (these can be either imposter or crewmate, doesn't matter) are left in the end. The name of the imposter will be revealed at the end of the game.

The final round will consist of winners from each group, but this time all the players have the choice to end the game after each meeting. If the players end the game at any time then the prize money will be distributed among the winners equally.

Round 1 + 2

Tech Quiz: Participants will have to answer a few technical questions. Testing knowledge about technology trends and general knowledge.

Typing competition: Team members will play a speed-typing based game. The teams surviving more in-game time will receive higher scores. The final score will be based on the total points of each of the team members.

Top 'few' teams will advance to the next round.

Round 3

Code by Luck: Teams will be given a simple problem statement. The team decides a leader. All team leaders are together and have to roll a die, turn by turn. If the dice rolls a 6, the other members of the group are allowed to type the solution of their code on their assigned computer, until another team leader rolls a 6.

If another unlucky number is rolled on the die, penalties (fun punishments) may be applied to the team leaders.

The first team to complete the given problem wins the event.

DEFY THE LIMITS

Blend your style and experience on a competitive stage. You have 13 rounds to attack and defend your side using sharp gunplay and tactical abilities. And, with one life per-round, you'll need to think faster than your opponent if you want to survive.

CREATIVITY IS YOUR GREATEST WEAPON

More than guns and bullets, you'll choose an AGENT armed with adaptive, swift, and lethal abilities that create opportunities to let your gunplay shine. No two Agents play alike, just as no two highlight reels will look the same.
